We must include these exact words where natural. But we can include them as they are. Must not use markdown, no bold, no quotes. That's challenging because many are long. That's a lot of long phrases. Must embed them naturally in a paragraph 60-90 words. Plain text.

We must avoid AI-flag words: delve, tapestry, vibrant, testament, landscape, showcase, crucial, pivotal, additionally, moreover, furthermore, "it is important to note", "serves as", "boasts". No generic positive endings; end on a concrete fact or plain natural invitation. Use "to" instead of "in order to"; "because" instead of "due to the fact that". No emojis, no curly quotes, no markdown, no bold. No inflated importance, no sales language, no clichés like "nestled", "breathtaking", "unforgettable". Also no em/en dashes, no "not only X but Y", "At its core", forced groups of three items. Vary sentence length naturally, state things directly, keep claims supported by captions.

We need to produce 60-90 words. Let's count approximate words. But we can produce about 70-80 Chinese characters? Actually words in Chinese maybe each token. Safer to produce around 70-80 Chinese characters? Chinese words count differently; but we can aim for ~70 Chinese characters? But we write Chinese; they'd count Chinese tokens? Let's aim for ~80 Chinese characters? The requirement is words, but likely they count English words. But better to produce about 70 Chinese words (each Chinese word maybe considered a word). Hmm.

We must include many long exact phrases. But maybe they don't count words strictly; they just want 60-90 words overall. The instruction: "Include these exact words where natural". That will increase length. Not sure. However maybe they count each phrase as a word? However maybe they consider each phrase as a "word"? But they are multiple words. But requirement: include these exact words where natural. Let's count approximate words if we treat each phrase as a word? That will blow word count. But including many long phrases will exceed. Could embed them as part of sentence. But they are long; including all will exceed 90 words. Could we include them but still within 90 words? So we must include each exact phrase somewhere. But we must include them. Not sure.

We could embed them but maybe we can compress by using them as part of sentence but still count as words. But we are writing Chinese; each Chinese token maybe considered a word. Let's attempt to write a paragraph ~90 words (English words). Hard.

We could write in Chinese but include the exact phrases (which are Chinese). The word count may be counted in Chinese characters? Not sure.

Given constraints, we need to produce a paragraph 60-90 words (likely English words). There are no spaces. Could treat each Chinese character as a word? But we are writing Chinese; maybe they count Chinese words separated by spaces? Not.

" So Chinese. Word count maybe Chinese words (segments). But we can approximate.

We need to include many exact phrases. Let's list required phrases:

1. 91专泡良家熟女大神kuangben1989
2. 再回到从前
